Don't want to leave your hotel room? Want something special in your office? Or don't want to have to drive home from the spa after a relaxing massage? Can't be bothered to get your pedi done in the nail bar down the road? Like to do a his and hers spa chez vous?

Then USPAAH is your new personal spa concierge, bringing a spa to your door. It's a new app that offers high-end beauty treatments from 'spaahristas' – think tip-top mobile beauticians – who arrive Uber-style at a tap of your finger and within the hour.

'Requesting. Searching for the nearest spaahrista.....' reads the App as I book my appointment. Maya, the beautician, arrives punctually to do my nails. OK, thumbs down that she doesn't have an extension lead for her machine to dry my gel nails – so we have to move closer to my wall sockets. But she does an excellent job of painting my nails with Jessica Cosmetics and I end up with perfect rouge noir-ish talons.

Then Vanessa, a delightful Italian Colombian and another USPAAH beautician, comes at 5:30 to give me a massage. (The app has already asked whether I have any chronic skin conditions, have had recent operations etc). Within seconds she has turned my home office into a relaxing sanctuary, the air scented with fragrant mist and the usual kind of spa music tinkling like a mountain stream. She gives me a decent massage using Aroma Works organic body oils. Then all I have to do is crawl into bed.

If you work or live in central London, USPAAH could be the app for you. Just a few taps and you have a professional beautician en route to do a 60-minute massage or your nails. Plus they offer treatments 7:00am to 10:00pm 365 days a year. Book one for Christmas Day?

The app is free to download on iTunes or email conciierge@uspaa.com or visit www.uspaa.com for more information.
